

Spring Teacher Academy 2017

February 27 and February 28, 2017

The Ohio Association for Gifted Children is proud to present the 16th annual OAGC Teacher Academy. The Teacher Academy offers a good blend of practical and research-based sessions for gifted intervention specialists and regular classroom teachers. This year, the OAGC Teacher Academy will be held on February 27 and 28, 2017. The academy will feature a number of sessions addressing current needs, such as gifted student growth strategies, differentiation, the newly revised Ohio gifted operating standards, Ohio Learning Standards and gifted education, and more. The academy will offer several practical minikeynotes along with a wide variety of sessions throughout the two days. We are very pleased to have national expert, Bertie Kingore, with us for both days of the conference. In addition, there will be many sessions taught by national, state, and local experts. A full list of session speakers and descriptions, along with this registration form, will be available at www.oagc.com/teacheracademy.asp in January 2017.

COLLEGE CREDIT/CEU CREDIT

One hour of semester credit will be available from Ashland University at a cost of $278. Course registration will be coordinated on the first day of the academy. Ashland University will accept checks or credit card payment for semester hour credit. In addition to the 15 hours of contact work in the academy, a project will be required of each student for credit. Project information will be distributed on the first day of the academy. Only two-day participants may receive Ashland University credit.

CEU credit certificates for 12 contact hours (two-day participants) or 6 hours (one-day participants) will be issued by the OAGC. Certificates can be transferred to your local LPDC for proper CEU credit.
